The big $2,400.00 automobile campaign of the Daily Bulletin-Public Ledger was brought to a close last Saturday night. Promptly at 9 o'clock on Monday morning the official judges took charge of the ballot boxes and worked carefully until late in the afternoon, totalling each contestant's votes.

The aggregate votes of the winners of the two automobiles alone were more than ten million votes.

RIVALRY WAS KEEN.

The last week of the contest was notable. Rivalry between the candidates was friendly but intense and the number of votes turned in by the contestants and their friends was fairly staggering. When the judges met Monday morning to count votes they faced a task that would have been discouragingly laborious but for the keen interest they felt in the contest and the knowledge they had of the popularity of the movement in every section in which the two papers are circulated.

WINNERS DESERVE SUCCESS.
The winners are well entitled to success; by hard work they have demonstrated that energy and persistency win. The same principle if applied to any other line of endeavor will bring success.

To the ladies who worked hard and did their best, but failed to win, the Daily Bulletin-Public Ledger extends its genuine regrets that they did not have the joy of seeing their efforts crowned with success.

If the thanks of the Public Ledger can, in a measure, lessen the regret of the losers, let it be theirs. We try for a goal and we miss it.

To the ladies who won we say: "All Hail! Your prizes are yours by the right of conquest," as it were. The Public Ledger hopes that you will be proud of them.

We have dealt with ladies. They have dealt with an institution which to the best of its ability, made the contest one long to be remembered for its wholesome and fair character.

HATS OFF TO MR. RUSSELL.

Genial, affable Tom Russell, president of the Maysville team, arrived on the noon C. & O. train Sunday to be here in plenty of time to look after the financial end of the jaunt. Mr. Russell, long one of Maysville's most influential citizens, has won many friends here by his gentlemanly ways and his willingness to give Maysville a rattling good ball club. If there were a few more men of Mr. Russell's caliber in the league there would no such thing as a road team.—Portsmouth Times.

Master Emerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Curtis and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Brodt, who is seriously ill at the family home on the Taylor's Mill road, is reported holding his own as well as could be expected. The plucky little fellow is a general favorite in his school and neighborhood, and a host of friends join in wishing him a speedy recovery.

SOME INTERESTING FACTS

INCIDENT ONE—

A lady whose taste in dress is unquestioned saw a suit in our stock which greatly pleased her but she declined to buy it, frankly stating, the Cincinnati market she was sure would offer better style and price values and she was going there the next day to get a suit. Before noon the following day a long distance telephone message brought instructions to reserve the suit she admired as she found after careful shopping that any suit approaching ours in style and quality would cost $15 more in Cincinnati.

INCIDENT TWO—

A lady returned from Cincinnati rejoicing in possession of a suit bought at a "Special price" which she was assured represented a great bargain. Her surprise can be imagined when she found a replica of the suit, bought from us for $10 less.

INCIDENT THREE—

A lady looked through our Coat stock but decided to shop in Cincinnati before deciding. She bought her coat from us with the positive assurance our Coats are as smart as any shown in Cincinnati and our prices are unquestionably lower.

(Special Correspondence.)

Mayslick, Ky., September 11.—Today marked the closing of one of the most enjoyable sessions of Teachers' Institutes ever held in Mason county.

No little surprise was felt this morning when it was announced that Miss Allilee King and Miss Fannie Tugle who, for the past eight years have taught together at the Lewisburg school, had resigned, Miss King to become County School Supervisor, and Miss Tugle demonstrator of Home Economics.

Miss Crosby and Miss Wallace will succeed them at Lewisburg.

Friday's Program.

The Institute seems to improve each day, bringing larger attendance and fuller programs.

Today's session we began by an address by Mrs. Stewart.

Miss Phoebe Forman then spoke on music in the public schools.

Mrs. Stewart then took up the course of study, giving thorough instruction in its use, laying special emphasis upon the language work in the primary grades. She was followed by Mr. Dix with a further discussion of alternation.

Mr. C. E. Turnipseed then gave a splendid discussion upon the teaching of civics and history.

The afternoon program was begun by Mrs. Stewart with a discussion of advanced reading.

After this Mr. Caldwell and Mr. Dix gave some very helpful suggestions upon manual training. They were followed by Congressman Fields upon the use of the farmers' bulletins and how they might be maintained.

Mrs. Stewart then made a plea for the moonlight schools and asked the teachers of Mason county to help in the work by pledging to teach at least three weeks, which most of them did.

In the evening Dr. Cherry, of Bowling Green, spoke to a packed house upon the subject of "Community Patriotism," in which he highly praised the Mayslick people for the great public spirit that they have shown in their community.

ARCHANGEL.

Washington, D. C.—Unlike the other belligerents, vulnerable in every part, Russia has unlimited reaches of territory where no wounds of war could be inflicted, where no invaders would ever come, and where, if they came, their coming would be to no purpose, as it could work no damage. Such a security from the perils of war is enjoyed by the north of Russia, the wild, thinly-peopled governments of Archangel and Olonets, which are described as follows in the latest bulletin of the National Geographic Society:

"In the north of European Russia stretches a land of endless forests, of immense belts of moor wastes and of grayish tundra which blurs as far as the eye can reach into uncertain horizons. Here mighty, unfrequented rivers cut their ways to the northern waters, some drowsy and reed-cluttered and others swift and strong and cascade-broken. Here are innumerable pleasant, wooded lakes and huge inland seas, and throughout all of the royal reaches of this north are good hunting and wilderness.

"Archangel is the only city in this region whose name is known in the outside world, and the only place that has been able to achieve an individual distinction in the midst of the vastness, the desolation and the congelation of winters of Russia's north. There is much economic value in the north, the forests are filled with valuable furbearing animals, the lower forests are rich in noble trees, the higher forests in pitch and tar, the tundras in reindeer herds and great sturgeon are caught through the ice of the rivers, which produce large quantities of this delicate fish meat and caviar.

"The English established a trading 'factory' near present Archangel, during the reign of Ivan the Terrible, and since their coming the region has been exploited by adventurous traders, trappers, huntsmen and fishermen, but the country has never passed the pioneer stage. The roads, for the most part, are barely marked trails, narrow unlevelled ribbons through vast forests, indifferently corduroyed causeways through swamp and marsh lands and uncertain tracks through the northern tundra. Post stations are scattered over the governments, far apart, where hardly little horses and prehistoric types of conveyances are kept for the occasional trader, the occasional letter and the rare visitor. The villages are small and poor and forgetful of the modern world and all that it contains. Between them are leagues of solitude.

"The northern Dvina and the Pechora are the two great rivers of the country and before the railroad penetrated to Archangel, they formed the commercial outlet of the land to the Arctic sea. The famous and fabulously wealthy monastery of Solovetski annually attracts 15,000 pilgrims from the far north, to the wooded island fourteen hours sailing from Archangel in the Gulf of Onega on which it stands. This monastery was founded in 1429. It was bombarded by the English fleet during the Crimean war, and the marks of hostile shells are still proudly shown.

"The northern peasants are very independent, quite the most independent of all the Russians. They have the self-reliance and self-respect of true pioneers, and, as free hunters in the forests and prospectors of the tundra, they share many of the characteristics of the free, careless people of our own early west and of the present Canadian northwest. Lacking even in the rudiments of education, picturesque in their costumes, primitive in their customs, they are a simple, straightforward, stalwart and hospitable people.

"Some of their songs linger long in memory. Their tales are stirring, of privation and of adventure. Their woods are full of game and their rivers are lavishly stocked with fish. Woodcock, capercaillie, tree-partidge and blackcock are to be shot in abundance among the trees that fringe each village. In the forests are foxes, wolves and sombre Russian bears, nursing their peculiar, perpetual grouches. The peasants sometimes hunt the bear armed only with long knives. Wolves, however, are the most thrilling quarry. They are hunted in summer and autumn on horseback; the hunters, aided by trained hounds, drag down the wolf and stab it to death. This is exciting and dangerous sport. In winter, they are hunted by parties in sleighs, and often the quarry hunts the hunters, the hunters, the pack racing by the side of the sleigh, snapping at the cold rifle muzzles and at the horses. This sport is also exhilarating.

"In autumn, in the 'time of change,' this whole region is shut off from the outside world, the roads become impassable and all communication ceases. There are twenty words for ice, eleven for cold, forty-one for snow and twenty-six for the process of freezing in the speech of the Lapps, and this goes far toward making plain the autumns, the winters and the early springs of north Russia."

Fuel oil obtained from Scotch shale fields has been found highly suitable for the British navy and it is estimated that from 400,000 to 500,000 tons will be available annually for 150 years.

Australia maintains a training school for boys who desire to become expert farmers but lack the means to pay for proper instruction.

"KIEF."

Washington, D. C.—Kief is the wealthiest, most important and largest city in the immediate path of the Teutonic invaders, and one of the oldest and most important of Russia's towns. A statement given out by the National Geographic Society today describes the place, the famed "mother of Russian cities," which is now threatened by the southward sweep of the Austro-German armies from Kovel and Lutsk, and by the eastward advance of the Austrians in Galicia.

"Kief is beautifully situated on the broad Dnieper among a cluster of golden hills. There are other cities in Russia to dispute its claim of being the cradle of the modern empire, but it is the undisputed cradle of orthodoxy, the birthplace of the Russian church, and it is still a first religious center. Holy Kief is known as the Russian Jerusalem. It is a city of many churches, monasteries, sacred relics and of numerous saints. More than a quarter of a million pilgrims have regularly visited the holy city each year during times of peace. As a place of pilgrimage, Russian Kief ranks with Mecca, with Jerusalem and Rome.

"It is a prosperous city, a modern and a progressive one. In its newer parts, the streets are broad and straight, and are built up with fine homes and public buildings. In the older quarter there are modern buildings from three to six stories high, which is a rare thing in Russia. The Krostchatikis a splendid thoroughfare, cut upon the most approved of western city plans. However, like Petrograd, the wide, regular streets of the southern metropolis are a heritage from the founders.

"Take away the churches, with their turnip, pineapple and pear-shaped domes, and Kief has little that is typically Russian. With the growth of its industry and commerce, it has adopted the modern city habit, a habit which is the same world around.

"Despite its obtrusive newness, Kief is an ancient city. Its fortunes have been intimately connected with the fortunes of Russia. It was founded about the beginning of the seventh century, and its authentic history begins with the arrival of the two Scandinavian knights, Askold and Dyr, who left Novogorod to take possession of it. Kief early became Christian, and the Greek faith was carried to the rest of the Russians from here. In the eleventh century, there are said to have been 400 churches within its walls. The relation between Byzantium and Kief were close and much of the Greek culture that has mixed itself with Russian life entered the empire by way of this city.

"Kief has been badly battered in more than 1,000 years of wars and internal disorders, but it has had a saving way of quickly covering up its wounds and beginning afresh with redoubled courage. At one time, it was the capital of the Russian state. It was subject for more than two generations to the mongols, when it fell to the possession of the Lithuanian principality for 239 years. For eighty-five years it was under the sway of Poland, and was finally reunited to Russia in 1686. It is by far the most important city in the Ukraine.

"The city lies on the right, or west, bank of the Dnieper, in the midst of a fruitful region which, during recent years, has been making rapid progress. It is 628 miles southwest of Moscow by rail, and 406 miles by rail north-northeast of Odessa. That part of the city built along the riverside is flat, while behind, the streets run up and down the hills and through picturesque gullies. Kief is rated as one of the most beautiful cities in Russia.

"Kief ranks next to Petrograd and Moscow in educational and scientific institutions. Its university is famous, and has more than 3,000 students. The city is also the Magdeburg of Russia, the center of the Empire's best sugar industry. This industry has been steadily gaining in importance. In 1910, 10,000,000 tons of beet sugar were produced in the Tsar's realm, while just before the war its production had risen to more than 140,000,000 tons. There are innumerable rich refineries in Kief. Further, there is a considerable manufacture of machinery, chemicals, hardware, paper and tobacco. The conserved fruits of Kief have a European reputation, and during recent years they have been successfully competing with English conserves. Kief has a population of 350,000 and has been rapidly adding numbers during the last ten years. The city lies 270 miles from Odessa and the Black Sea on a line as the bird flies."

AUGUST CROP REPORT, ISSUED SEPTEMBER 10, 1915.

The crop season for 1915 is fast drawing to a close and the conditions have been throughout very unusual. There have been more rainy days and cold, damp, soggy weather than any season of which this department has a record. Crops have been damaged from the excessive moisture and by wind storms. The two largest money crops in Kentucky are corn and tobacco. Both of these have grown without the proper cultivation and in general have been damaged by rain and wind, and no one can accurately predict just what the final yields and quality of either of these crops will be.

The reports to this office show the condition of corn to be 92 per cent; this is above the average. Many reports, however, state that much of the corn will be damaged when the harvesting times comes as result of being so badly blown. The Burley tobacco condition is given at 78.5 per cent, that of dark tobacco at 81. Tobacco is being rapidly housed, and warm clear weather is needed for properly curing it in the barns. The hemp crop is greatly improved and the condition is given at 94 per cent. Very large crops of cow peas and soy beans have been planted and their condition is given at 87 and 88 respectively. Garden conditions remain good at 92. Pastures are in splendid condition. Bluegrass is given a condition of 95 per cent, clover 92, alfalfa 91 and orchard grass 88. Fruit is only in fair condition—apples 82 per cent, grapes 81, pears 74 and peaches 71. Much complaint of fruit trees breaking under their heavy load as a result of the storms have been made. Live stock is doing well—horses are given a condition of 94 per cent, cattle 95, sheep 93 and hogs 92. Cholera exists at several points in the state and black leg at a few. Poultry is suffering as a result of the continued wet weather. There is not more than 80 per cent of a turkey crop.

Kentuckians have never known a season that illustrates the value of the silo more than the present one. Fortunately indeed is the farmers who is able to put his uncured alfalfa or clover in a silo during these rains, or who will be able to take care of his corn after it is blown to the ground. Many farmers report that the silo is the salvation of their crops this year. As predicted in the last crop report, the indications are that the farmers will not have a record breaking year in any line, but will have a large supply of forage crops for the winter with a reasonably good corn and tobacco crop. With pastures furnishing feed in abundance for the fall, the live stock should go into the winter in a healthy splendid condition. Taken as a whole the prospects for the year are above the average.

A MERCILESS JUDGE.

One Who Shows No Favor.

A merciless judge is Father Time. Before him the weak and wanting go to the wall. Only the truth can stand. For years the following statement from a Maysville resident has withstood this sternest of all tests.

Frederick Dreese, tailor, 1238 East Second street, Maysville, says: "I was troubled with inflammation of the bladder and an annoyance from my kidneys. The passages of the kidney secretions were irregular and I had a severe pain across the small of my back which interfered with my duties. When a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box at Wood & Son's Drug Store. They gave me prompt relief."

OVER THREE YEARS LATER Mr. Dreese said: "Since I used Doan's Kidney Pills, I have not had any kidney trouble nor have I had to take a kidney medicine in that time." Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Dreese has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

HANDLED MUCH TOBACCO—ALONZO KEARNS WAS SAID TO BE EXCEPTIONAL IN HANDLING SUCH CROP.

[Georgetown (O.) News-Democrat.] Coincident with the passing of Alonzo Kearns at his home on the Ripley-Arnheim pike, is related his wonderful ability in handling tobacco during its growth and preparation for market. Mr. Kearns was a man capable of carrying on all lines of farm work more extensively than probably any other citizen in the county, but he has been recognized for years as the one man in this section of the Burley tobacco district who could go into a field of growing tobacco and cut 1,000 sticks of tobacco in a day. He would do this with ease and it is said that it kept two men busy to keep pace with him. Then again, when the stripping period came, he could easily tie 1,500 hands of the tobacco in a day. He carried work in all lines along with such rapidity and because of this he was recognized as one of the most alert men who ever engaged in farming in Brown county.

IMPROVED HIGHWAYS PRODUCE WEALTH.

New York, September 9.—President Wilson, before his election, gave utterance to his views on highway improvement as follows:

"A nation is bound together by its means of communication. Its means of communication create its thought. Its means of intercommunication are the means of its sympathy; they are the means by which the various parts of it keep in touch with one another." This sentiment, intended in its application for the United States alone, has equal or greater force when applied to all America, because all American countries have the same problems before them. The civilizing and wealth producing results of improved highways have been amply established. The methods of finance and construction and maintenance and administration are all questions open to discussion, and the fact that almost every locality offers a separate and distinct set of conditions, causes these problems to attract the attention of the ablest minds in all countries.

The Pan-American Road Congress, which will assemble at Oakland, Cal., September 13-17, will take up all these subjects in detail and discuss them thoroughly. It must be considered that a great road congress is the medium through which road builders and engineers from various sections get in touch with one another. It is the channel of communication of ideas, of exchange of views. It is the clearing house where all methods and systems are weighed, and discussed and sifted and the most complete facts brought out.

The details of the Pan-American Road Congress have been arranged with a view to covering all possible phases of highway construction, maintenance and administration, by the presentation of papers and by discussions along lines of the most complete development, by experts on the respective subjects. The value of these papers and discussions must be apparent to any one who has any connection with road or street construction or maintenance, or who is interested in their improvement or extension.

All factors involved seem to indicate that the Pan-American Road Congress will be the most largely attended and most thoroughly interesting and instructive of any similar highway meeting ever organized in this or any other country.

Special activity is reported among the road and street officials of the Pacific states, and a full attendance from that section is anticipated. There is a large amount of highway construction now in progress in the coast states, and reports are that deep interest is being taken in the Pan-American Road Congress. Its deliberations and discussions and inspections are to be of service in the work now in progress as well as in that which is in contemplation. It is also expected that the congress will supply a force and a knowledge which will result in a more general public spirit for the betterment of the highways.

Steel, thinly veneered with wood, has been invented for interior finish of railroad cars, having the advantage that it will not splinter in event of accident, besides being a non-conductor of heat and cold.

Sweden's recent census, showing a population of 5,679,907, also showed fewer births in proportion to population than at any other time in the 170 years such statistics have been recorded.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(The Ledger Special Correspondence.)

Washington, September 13.—Long before President Wilson's political henchmen and professional press agents had finished proclaiming to the world the magnitude of his diplomatic triumph in inducing Germany to refrain from her persistent type of submarine warfare, German submarines sank, without warning, the steamer Hesperian, and the fact that Americans were not drowned when she went down was due solely to good fortune. Reports from abroad bring word of the sinking by German submarines of other passenger steamers, not bound for the United States, and the apologists for Woodrow Wilson have ceased their claims of a victory and are urging that public judgment be suspended until all the facts are known—or until public recollection of the Hesperian incident is less vivid. From an authoritative British source comes word that more than fifty German submarines, with their crews, have been destroyed by the allied navies and there are those who are so unkind as to believe that any apparent temporary yielding to Mr. Wilson's arguments by Germany was due rather to Germany's realization that the U-boat warfare is too costly, than a concession to the clumsy and blundering diplomacy of this administration. A sane view of the relations of this country with Germany is expressed by the Philadelphia Star, which says: "What wonder that Germany, or any other nation, should come to the conclusion that it could do as it liked with Americans and the American flag! The wonder is that after Mexicans have committed every possible atrocity upon Americans, have killed them right and left, have exhausted their devilish ingenuity in devising means for greater insult to Americans, our country and our flag, have outraged our women and stopped only because satiated, Washington should have become aroused because a few hundred more Americans, women and children included, should have been killed by German submarines."

Dumba's Plotting.

Dr. Dumba, the Austro-Hungarian ambassador, has frankly confessed that he devised a plan for promoting strikes in American factories and urged advised his government to authorize the expenditure of vast sums to corrupt American labor organizations. Moreover, this bland diplomat contends that he was entirely warranted in his course. When a British ambassador, Lord Sackville West, had the temerity to express his views regarding the political affairs of this country, President Cleveland promptly sent him his passports and requested England to send to Washington an ambassador with a keener appreciation of the obligations of an ambassador who was necessarily a guest in the capital of the United States. When Dupuy de Lome, Spanish minister to the United States, expressed in a private letter—written—stolen from the mails and printed—an unfavorable opinion of President McKinley, Mr. McKinley sent him his passports and a like communication to Spain. In neither instance did this evidence of self-respect on the part of the United States strain the friendly relations between this country and that of the disgraced diplomat. Neither had the diplomatic representative of England been guilty of anything like so grave an impropriety as has Dr. Dumba, but the lesson taught England has lasted, for the present ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, has not permitted any person connected with his embassy even to take part in the purchase of munitions and supplies. That President Wilson will pursue a like course in the case of Dr. Dumba was not generally expected, but those close to the President realize that it is not Austria, but the German vote in this country, which Mr. Wilson fears to offend.

The Mexican Muddle.

Like bread cast upon the waters, the blunders of this administration in its dealings with Mexico are coming back after many days, and their consequences are dire in that extreme. Anarchy prevails in that unfortunate republic, and so spineless and inconsistent has been Mr. Wilson's policy that many Mexicans have come to believe that they can with safety invade the United States and that the hated "Gringos" will prove too cowardly to strike back. All along the border are occurring raids by portions of Carranza's army and that old bandit chieftain has thus far treated the last solemn petition of this government with supreme contempt. Turning a deaf ear to all advice and with an obstinacy almost incredible, Mr. Wilson refuses to restore the embargo on arms and ammunition, despite the fact that already the weapons supplied by the United States are being turned on American soldiers and many have been killed and wounded. Within thirty days 349,000 rounds of ammunition have passed into Mexico through the single port of Brownsville, and the people along the border are in a state of terror. The greatest suffering continues in the interior and no woman is safe from the fiends whom, against all competent advice, Woodrow Wilson has persisted in regarding as benefactors and liberators of the race. The severest and the most just arraignment of President Wilson's course with regard to Mexico has been penned by his friend and fellow Democrat, Col. George Harvey, and appears as an editorial in the North American Review for September. Colonel Harvey reiterates his warning of sixteen months ago, when addressing the President, he said: "Persistence in a course which you must know to be wrong will be attributed to no kind of reasoning whatever, but to your own stubborn pride." And again he says: "The crux of the President's blundering is to be found in his misconception of his own functions. Impressed by his unprecedently quick elevation from a college professorship to the most exalted political position on earth, convinced of the popularity of the hazy theories whose fascinating articulation had charmed the people, flushed by his success in subordinating a co-ordinate branch of the government to his own will, isolated and feared, he unconsciously, but inevitably, assumed the attitude of one divinely appointed to conserve humanity in new and striking ways—and forgot for the moment that he was a quite fallible and far from omnipotent being, who in reality had only been elected President of the United States, charged with the performance of certain official tasks specifically defined by fundamental law." In view of the fact that it was Col. Harvey who, probably more than any other man, was responsible for making Woodrow Wilson President, this criticism is as pertinent as it is unprejudiced.

The Philippines Also.

That President Wilson's obstinacy and overbearing self-confidence are sowing the wind from which this country will reap the whirlwind in the Philippines is the solemn warning of ex-President Taft. Republican though he be, Judge Taft has loyally upheld the hands of President Wilson wherever he conscientiously could and has even plagued some of his more partisan Republican friends by his praise of the present occupant of the White House. But regarding the Philippines Mr. Taft speaks on the subject doubtless nearest his heart and of which he is most competent to speak, and his denunciation of Governor General Harrison, of the extent to which this administration is corrupting the Philippine civil service and setting a bad example to the people we have undertaken to train the art of self government, should not fall on deaf ears. Mr. Taft warns the people of the United States that the administration is creating another Mexican situation. The Philippines are so far away that only those especially capable to judge of conditions there, or who have special advantages in obtaining information, are likely to know the facts unless, and until, there is some terrible outbreak, but terrible retribution will await the administration which deliberately or at least indifferently, creates in our far-off dependency, the same anarchy which it has so successfully promoted in Mexico.

miles to see, has made its last voyage across the Pacific under the American flag, and has been sold to England. It will now journey around the Horn and enter into the carrying trade on the Atlantic. This grand old ship, a monument to American enterprise, is the last of the first-class ships flying the American flag on the Pacific and its owners have been compelled to sell it by the Seamen's Bill which Mr. Wilson persisted in signing against the most earnest and eloquent pleas of his official advisers, who foretold precisely the disastrous effects on American shipping which the bill would have. Westerners, who will not permit Japanese to own land within their states, must now go, hat in hand, to the Japanese owners of the trans-Pacific ships to apply for the transportation which his pernicious legislation makes it impossible for Americans longer to supply.

APPLE MARKETS INJURED BY POOR FRUIT.

Washington, D. C.—Effective co-operative organizations afford the best means for profitable marketing of the country's increasing apple crop, according to a survey of market conditions in the industry just published as Bulletin No. 302, "Apple Market Investigations 1914-15," by the United States Department of Agriculture. In states where apples are boxed instead of barreled, growers' associations handle a large percentage of the output and in securing uniformity in the pack and advantageous distribution of the crop are much more successful than individual producers in other sections. Where individuals act independently there is little uniformity in grading and much poor fruit is shipped which, in seasons of large production such as 1914, can not be disposed of profitably.

Observations in the Chicago market showed that 25 per cent of the arrivals in carlot bulk, or the equivalent of 350 carloads, and 10 per cent of the barreled shipments, the equivalent of about 160 carloads, were of such poor quality that the price would not have paid the freight charges had these apples been shipped by themselves. By throwing out this poor fruit the farmers would not only have saved the cost of packing and shipping, but would have cleared the market for their good stock. Similar conditions were found elsewhere.

In this connection it is said that the grade and package laws now in operation in a number of states are proving effective in stabilizing the market. Uniformity in state legislation of this kind, the authors state, is, however, most desirable.

The effect of the war upon the industry has been found to be less disastrous than was apprehended. Because of the cheapness of the fruit, consumption was stimulated until the exports far exceeded expectations. The German ports being closed, large quantities were shipped direct to the Scandinavian markets for the first time and this should prove of considerable benefit in future years. Direct trade with South America has also increased greatly and should continue to do so. Especially if the growing trade in meat products affords additional return facilities for shipment. Careful selection, grading and packing by hand is, however, essential to the delivery of the fruit in good condition, and only stock that may be classed as "fancy" and "extra fancy" should be exported to South American ports.

But there's consolation in the thought that flannel-mouthed people seldom pull the wool over anybody's eyes.

"KICK IN."

An enjoyable event is forecast in the announcement that the great success, "Kick In," is coming to the Washington Opera House for one night only, Wednesday, September 15. This is another substantial attraction flying the A. H. Woods banner, the producer to whom the public is indebted for such entertainments as "Potash & Perlmutter," "Within the Law," Julian Eltinge and numerous musical and dramatic hits.

"Kick In" is a comedy drama dealing with a new phase of New York life, wherein the police department and a set of very human and picturesque criminals are dramatically concerned. Its story is the most intense revelation ever put on the stage, although much comedy is promised which relieves the strained nerves of the spectator. Seats are now on sale.

AN OVERBURDENED WIFE.

If the work that women do and the pains they suffer could be measured in figures, what a terrible array they would present! Through girlhood, wifehood and motherhood woman toils on, often suffering with backache, pains in side, headaches and nervousness which are tell-tale symptoms of organic derangements which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—made from roots and herbs—can undoubtedly correct. Women who suffer should not give up hope until they have given it a trial.

Colonel Andrew Jackson Boyd, who holds down the second trick at the C. & O. station here, celebrated the beginning of his annual vacation Sunday by going to Portsmouth to witness the ball game. While he is away General E. H. Maas will attend to the raking in of the shekels for the company.

After witnessing the public effect of the reprimand of General Wood, there are probably a lot of other generals who would like to have Secretary Garrison distinguish them in similar manner. Almost every one likes to be popular.

There will be twenty or more attractions on the grounds besides the rings. One should not miss the billy goat race, the mock wedding, the baby show, the three-round glove contest, the poorest turnout, the cake-walk, catching the greased pig, the pie and watermelon eating contests and the slow mule race.

See the trained horse, the old plantation show and George Washington Curry cake-walk at the fair.

PORTSMOUTH WINS

FIFTH GAME OF SERIES ON LOCAL GROUNDS—WINCHELL AND TEST MEET AGAIN.

In the fifth game of the post season series, before a large crowd, Portsmouth won over Maysville by the score of 5 to 2.

Winchell and Test were the opposing pitchers, but the latter gave way to Diltz in the ninth inning, when the local staged a vain rally, which fell short by three runs.

The game was a well played one, no more than a single run being made in any one inning. Spencer and Sharman did the bulk of the hitting for the Cobs, each connecting for a home run drive. Tinnin, the coming right fielder of the locals, starred at the bat for Maysville, getting three hits out of five trips to the plate.

Manager Devore played a stellar game in the field, accepting five hard chances.

CROWDED QUARTERS

MAYSVILLE HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING TOO SMALL FOR STUDENT BODY—ENLARGEMENT IS NECESSARY.

The Board of Education is in a quandary over the crowded condition of the Maysville High School. A few years ago when the new High School was built extra rooms were provided for future increase in attendance, but at that time the school had an enrollment of only 75 to 100 pupils, and it was thought that the building was large enough for any possible increase but with the added advantages offered the students the building has proven inadequate and this year with 215 scholars, it is crowded to the limit.

The installation of the business course has demanded more space and to make room for the new study, which bids fair to be the most popular of the curriculum, the beautiful ladies' rest room was done away with and the reception room was also pressed into service. An exit shaft is now used as a cloak and rest room for the ladies, while there is no reception room.

A few months ago the board purchased the adjoining Dinger property for the express purpose of using it as an annex to the High School and from the present outlook it will not be many months before the purchase will have to be occupied.

The domestic science and business departments may well occupy the annex and the grade classes will not have to be moved to another building.

Something must be done and done quickly, as the crowded condition is not satisfactory and will develop into a menace to the health and safety of the children of Maysville.

Bids will be received until September 16 for building an addition and two Kentucky sanitary privies to the Eastland school building. Plans and specifications may be seen at the office of Superintendent Jessie O. Yancey. Bids will be opened September 16 at 7 p. m., at school building, and let to the lowest and best bidder.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

JOHN J. CLAYBROOK, Chairman of Education Division No. 3, Maysville No. 2.

PRESIDENT CARR HERE.

President Joe Carr, of the Ohio State League, is in this city today to witness the final game of the post-season series between the Maysville and the Portsmouth teams.

Mr. J. P. Goldberry, of Ripley, was in this city Monday on business.

OUR COLORED CITIZENS

Mr. and Mrs. James Griffey entertained on last Friday with a six o'clock dinner in honor of Mrs. Henderson, who is a prominent educator of the south and who leaves for her school in a few days. A delicious dinner was served and was thoroughly enjoyed. Among those present were Mrs. Dr. Patton, Miss Mary Britten and Mrs. R. Jackson.

GREAT STREET PARADE.

The great Colored Fair street parade will come off tomorrow at 11 o'clock. Those who intend to take a part in it will assemble at Plum and Fourth streets.

The line of march will be from Plum to Fourth, thence north on Market to Third, west on Third to Wall; north on Wall to Second, east on Second to Market, south on Market to Third, east on Third to Bridge, east on Second to fair grounds.

It is the sincere wish of the Fair Company that every livery stable, garage and business establishment will be represented or advertised in the procession as fully as possible. Any private concern or individual may enter the lines. Any country concern can be in the parade.

Please help out the parade by being in it, either on horse, in rig, auto or on foot.

The Hon. George Washington Curry will lead the procession in his usual dignified manner. One dollar will be given to the best turnout in the parade and $1. to the poorest turnout. The Fair Company and the Humane Society will not allow in the worst turnout a horse or mule that is crippled, aged, affected, blind, very poor or any way in distress. The fun or derision must be up to the person or the rig and not upon a poor, dumb, helpless creature. The company will have a humane officer present. The Humane Society has kindly offered $2 for the best horse and dray, or horse and wagon, or horse and cart owned by a colored person in the parade, and $1 for the second best.

BASEBALL TODAY

Portsmouth and Maysville play the last game of the post season series here today. Should Maysville win the two teams go to Portsmouth tomorrow to play the deciding game. French will be on the mound for the locals, while Hancock will do the hurling for the visitors. Go out and boost for the home team.

Mr. John Hart and family, of Cynthiana, and Mr. Oliver Hart, of southern Kentucky, motored over Sunday and spent the day with their sisters, the Misses Hart, of East Fifth street.
